DOON BRAKIS

Rut Pelore You Put Them On Be Sure They'll Stay After They're

Forror Times:-I wish to call the attented States to the necessity of having good and effectual brakes on their cars. Not that I expect to tell them anything, but what they already know, but simply to rewhat they already know, but simply to remind them of what they already know, that is, the necessity of having rood and trusty brakes on their cars. And allow me to state, right here, that I have just the kind of a brake they all need, it is easy to set and unset. A boy often years old can set it as well as the strongest man, and with perfect safety. There is no danger of a brakeman being thrown off the car by the brake-stem twisting off, as is the case of the common brake. I use the same brake-stem and every-hing connected with the common brake, but I apply the power differently. Instead of the chain wrapping around the stem, as it does on the old brake, I raise the brake-stem by having a coarse thread cut. if railroads need. I do think the inthis of the accidents which happen on the airroads are caused by crippled and decient brakes. Now, if any one is sceptical egarding what I say just let him stand and the control of the control of ning on their own road, so you see the account is ball need and the cars are all in good safe running order. But remember, there is a prodigal car, or a car away from home. It is on the Rock Island road, it belongs to the C. B. & Q. Now what must be done with the car? I would say rather than run it on the road in the present condition, set it off the track, to run it as it is, as it night be instrumental in throwing the whole train

But this is not the best more to do with the and Rock Island company to put this car in good running order, and the to B, and Q, psy them for so doing and then they will have saved a car. By having good and effectual brakes many collisions and accidents will be avoided. I will close my present remarks by saying that if I have misrepresented the by saying that, it I have misrepresented use condition of the brakes, and some one will be kind enough to tell in what respect I have misrepresented them. I will ask pardon and thank him for his information. Yours, respectfully, JOHN TARE.

Judge Foster owes it to the dignity of his position and the integrity of Republican institution in general to see that the decrees of his court are enforced.

The coal shaft project meets with general favor in both Houses of the Legislature, and the appropriation will undoubtedly be made. All bills appropriating to institutions situated in Leavenworth county are in a fair way to get through.
